NEWARK BASEBALL COMMITTEE MEETS LEAGUE DIRECTORS

Present Claims for Franchise in the Central League at South Bend,
Ind., Meeting Today

President Carson Would Like to Have Newark Buy
Franchise--Advocate Sporting Editor Wires
Full Particulars of the Proceedings--
Meeting May Last Over Tuesday

(By F. A. Woolson, Staff Special.)

South Bend, Ind., June 26.
(2 p. m.)—There has been considerable delay in getting the directors together. However, they finally went into session at 11:15 this morning. Fifteen minutes after the Newark committee was invited to appear before the meeting and present their claims.

All clubs are not yet represented and the meeting will continue this afternoon and probably tonight. We have been unable to learn up to the present time what the league will demand.

President Carson talks of Newark buying the franchise of Grand Rapids, but evades all pointed questions and evidently is waiting for league directors to work out a solution.

We have been unable to learn whether any other city is in the field after a Central league franchise, but hints have been dropped that such is the case. The committee has been working hard mending fences all morning, and we are still hopeful of the outcome.

We received a cheering message from Newark shortly after dinner informing us that the various committees had succeeded in raising a guarantee fund of $1,500 and could secure more if necessary. It is that sort of spirit which may induce the directors to award our city a franchise in the Central league.

South Bend, Ind., June 26. —The Newark baseball committee arrived at South Bend at 10:50 Sunday night, after having had a very pleasant trip.

We left Newark at 12:55 via Pennsylvania, Columbus at 2:55 via Hocking Valley and arrived at Toledo at 6:30. After spending an hour viewing the outskirts of Toledo we left via the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern.

Upon arriving here we went at once to the Oliver Hotel, where the Central League meeting is to be held today. We found President Carson of the Central League and President Shryock of the Zanesville club waiting to greet us and the former made an engagement with the committee for 9 o'clock this morning.

No other league directors had arrived Sunday night and it is thought that all will be in the city by 10 o'clock this morning. It is rather doubtful if Harley Parker, league director and former owner of the Grand Rapids club will be here.

The committee has no reason to be discouraged. Mr. Shryock states that the Grand Rapids franchise in Newark would be very beneficial to the league, and that he will use every effort to try and land it in the Licking county capital. At this hour we have been unable to get any definite information as to what Newark must do for a franchise, but this matter will be determined by the league some time today and it will then be up to the committee to state whether the demands can be met.

After getting as much dope on the situation as was possible, the committee sought rest and repose in order to be fresh for the fray this morning.

Not to be caught napping, every member of the committee was up and astir by 7 o'clock and had an early breakfast. Then after a little peep at the pretty town of South Bend, they started the real work of their trip. Every minute of the time was put in and no stones were left unturned that offered the least indication of being turned to the benefit of their plans.

By the time the Central League directors were prepared to open their business meeting formally, the Newark boys had their dope well in hand and their plan of battle was carefully laid out. They went into the meeting with the confidence that if they did not get what they were after it could not be said at home or in South Bend that they did not honestly and conscientiously try to accomplish the purpose for which they made the long trip.

Those here in the interest of Newark are Bernie Wingerter, Jack Martin, H. H. Scott and the sporting editor of the Advocate, and we were all made happy this morning by the receipt of the following telegram from Newark:

"The officers of the Newark Board of Trade wish you success in your effort to place Newark in the Central League, and I am sure the entire membership of over 600 will do its part toward boosting the game if your mission to South Bend succeeds."
—C. H. SPENCER, Pres."

President Carson and associates were highly pleased with the spirit shown by the Board of Trade and stated that if the franchise was awarded to Newark they had no doubt but that every member would do his share in boosting the game.

FAIR MEETING SATURDAY EVENING

Newark's committee of three with instructions to bring back the Grand Rapids franchise, received its final instructions and suggestions at another round meeting of the fans held at the Mayor's office Saturday night.

Owing to the fact that many of the fans were working Saturday night, the attendance was not as large as the night before but none of the enthusiasm was lacking.

After a few preliminary matters were disposed of, a suggestion was made and it later took the form of a motion, that those present make themselves a member of one of the committees to start out Saturday night and see what could be done in the matter of soliciting subscriptions of money to be used as a guarantee against any loss that might come from transferring the Grand Rapids franchise to Newark. This guarantee will be posted in a bank and it is the intention for the balance of the season to keep in enough money to meet the actual expenses, the deficit will be made up out of this fund with a certain limitation.

This work was started at once. The secretary was very kindly granted the use of Mayor Anker's typewriting machine and a number of subscription papers were struck off and the men started out with them at once.

One paper which remained at the mayor's office while the others went out, was filled up faster than the secretary could write the names. More than $300 was subscribed on this paper alone in less than fifteen minutes.

A suggestion made by Mr. Frank Woolson of the Advocate, that the affairs of the city be left in the hands of two general committees, who are to report to Mr. Wingerter at South Bend Monday morning, was put in the form of a motion by Cliff Rosebough and unanimously carried.

W. V. Jordan and Carol Baugh were named a chairman of the general committee and all persons who have so far subscribed were instructed to report to them not later than 3 o'clock Monday morning.

Mr. Baugh and Mr. Jordan made their report to the committee at the meeting at South Bend.

This will give the committee at the South Bend meeting an idea of the situation.

SMUGGLING SENSATION IN NEW YORK

New York, June 26.—The smuggling into this country of $300,000 worth of jewels, presented to "John D. Wells" by a millionaire, is soon to result, customs officials say, in the indictment of a New York man who is at the head of one of the largest banking and brokerage houses in the city. Two other men of great wealth and influence in their community—one a Southerner, the other a Westerner—will likewise be indicted, the authorities say.

Four, and possibly six, Customs House inspectors will be charged by a Federal grand jury with having conspired with the three millionaires to admit free of duty, in consideration of bribes, the gems which were showered upon the woman whose picturesque career already has been described.

Richard Parr, deputy surveyor of the Port, whose persistent detective work for more than a year unearthed the smuggling, has about completed his task, and a wonderfully romantic story will be revealed when he takes the stand, he says.

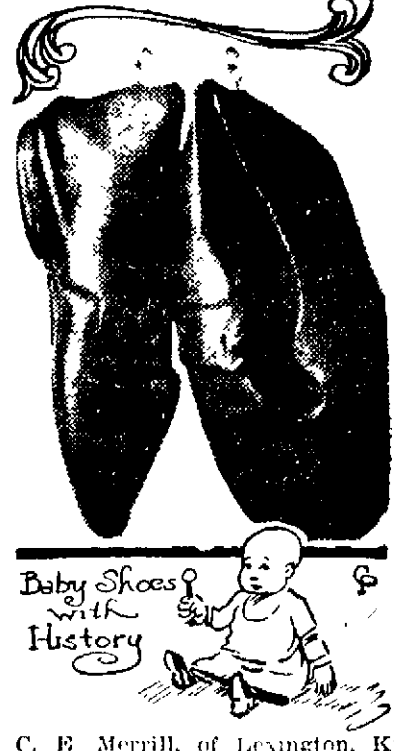

United States District Attorney Wise is preparing his case against both the Western millionaire and the Southern man and will present them to the July grand jury. By the middle of that month it is expected both men will have been arrested and arraigned. Then the case of the millionaire New York banker and broker will be taken up by the Government.

BOICE NOT KNOWN IN ALEXANDRIA, O.

East Liverpool, O., June 26. —Motorman W. H. Boice of Alexandria, Ohio, was killed and Alexander Alexander and James Rickman, both colored, were injured when an automobile car jumped the track at Wells, O. Sunday morning. The accident occurred on a curve.

Inquiry at Alexandria, O., failed to elicit any information concerning the Mr. Boice mentioned in the dispatch from East Liverpool. There is no family of that name residing in the village. It is probably that West Alexandria is meant in the dispatch.

C. E. Merrill, of Lexington, Ky., has received an inheritance from a deceased relative a pair of baby shoes made in 1783 and handed down from generation to generation. It is estimated they have been worn by 250 children and are known to have been sent over a total distance of 20,000 miles.

JUDGE E. M. WICKHAM ISSUES STATEMENT REGARDING THE LEE CASE AT MT. VERNON

Mt. Vernon, O., June 26.—Judge Wickham has given out the following statement in connection with his action in the Lee case:

Michael T. Lee was convicted of manslaughter on June 9th; he was released on a $10,000 bond to await the disposition of a motion for a new trial and the sentence, in the event the motion was overruled.

On Tuesday afternoon, June 13, at my invitation, he met me in the judge's room at the court house. My purpose was to obtain a better knowledge of the true character of the man by talking with him about the crime, about himself, his duties to his parents and to his wife and children and the community in which he has lived. I knew the feeling that existed against him both before and after the trial, and that those persons would be satisfied with nothing less than the extreme penalty of the law. I knew he had been in bad repute for some years past; but reputation alone ought not to determine the measure of the court's judgment. We should remember that reputation may or may not be indicative of the person's true character, and that reputation is sometimes

"Got without merit."

I hold that two things should be taken into consideration, in a general way, to determine what the sentence should be in a criminal way, namely: the character of the crime and the character of the offender. And let me stress here to call the attention of my critics and villagers to the responsibility placed upon a judge when he comes to impose sentence for crime; he not only has the determination of the future life of the convict, but he holds within the hollow of his hand, perhaps, the future life and happiness of the offender's parents, and his wife and children. Does society demand such a sacrifice, if the law can be vindicated and satisfied without it? Would it not be a distinct benefit to convert the offender into a good citizen and promote the happiness, as far as possible, of those to whom he is near and dear, if such a result can be accomplished?

Keeping these things in view, let us analyze the case of Michael T. Lee. I will assume the facts to be as found by the jury. He administered ether and whisky to Metcalf and it resulted in Metcalf's death. But it must be remembered that Lee did not intend to kill Metcalf, nor to seriously injure him; he intended only to make him intoxicated or unconscious and send him to Newark, so that he would not be able to appear in court in Mt. Vernon the next day. If he had intended to kill Metcalf the state would have charged him with murder; but the element of intent being absent, the offense was manslaughter and not murder.

We should consider the moral of the crime. Let us put the matter in this form: A man administers arsenic with intent to kill, but fails of his purpose. (Continued on Page 4, Col. 3.)

PREDICT DEFEAT FOR ROOT AMENDMENT TO RECIPROCITY MEASURE IN SENATE TODAY

Washington, June 26.—The Root amendment to the wool pulp and paper schedule of the Canadian reciprocity bill, which the administration has been fighting as fatal to the agreement, undoubtedly will be defeated before the senate adjourns today, the Democrats and many of the Republicans who favor reciprocity having openly opposed the amendment.

With this amendment on which the reciprocity struggle for some time has centered, out of the way, the tariff fight will assume a wider scope. The wool tariff and the free list bills, as the Democratic house passed them, do not in their exact terms meet the approval of the Democratic forces in the senate or the Republican insurgents, but they form the basis for the fight that is to bring Canadian reciprocity and the whole tariff question into the open for a protracted debate.

The extent to which the insurgent Republican senators will be inclined to go is expected to be made clear during the tariff division this week. So far only indefinite outlining their course; they have indicated that they favor all the valuable tariff reductions they can squeeze out of the situation. Some of them have asserted their readiness to put onto the reciprocity bill any amendments they think susceptible of success, even in the face of the president's veto threat.

There is a decided lack of Democratic support, however, for the proposals that the insurgents have hinted at. Senator Bailey will fight for an amendment of the Canadian agreement to exempt from free trade the products of the farm, but while he will have some Democratic and much insurgent support for this plan, it is not expected to prevail.

Senator La Follette is working on general amendments that he will offer to the reciprocity measure, and to the wool and free list bills. He is determined to lead a hard fight for a general plan of revision of the more important schedules on the tariff law. His action and his amendments and arguments are being awaited by many of the insurgents, who do not care to open a fight until they have had the opportunity of seeing what he proposes and the effect his arguments have. Meantime, they are preparing for the fight, which promises to be confined principally to insurgents and a few Democrats.

The direct election of senators will come up again early in the week. The house has voted down the Bristow amendment, attached to the bill in the senate, and has asked for a conference on the measure. The conference committee of the two houses is expected to be named within a day or two.

MILLIONS RECLAIMED IN GOVERNMENT DECISION IN ALASKAN COAL LANDS

Washington, June 26.—The famous Cunningham-Guggenheim coal claims in Alaska variously estimated to be worth $100,000,000 to a billion dollars, were today ordered cancelled by Fred Bennett of the general land office, with the approval of Secretary Fisher of the interior department. By this decision it is claimed ed the allied efforts of the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate to grab Alaskan coal lands have been thwarted. These lands are the ones which caused the Ballinger-Pinchot feud, splitting the Taft administration into bitter factions, and resulting in the dismissal of Chief Forester Pinchot, Field Agent L. R. Glavis and several others. The Pinchot adherents look upon the decision as a great victory for them, as they had fought Ballinger on this issue before he retired. Attorneys of Cunningham say they will appeal to the United States supreme court.

In the decision the government finds that the location and entries were made pursuant to an agreement entered into by the claimants to combine the general claims. That the location, filing and entry were made with unlawful intent and purpose and that no coal mines were opened in the tracts located. In connection with the decision Secretary Fisher today stated that the department will ask the next session of congress to enact laws affecting Alaskan lands as the present ones, he said, are not practical or wise.

POLICE OFFICER GLENN ASSAULTED AND BEATEN SHOOTS FRANK SAVANGE

Trouble Occurred After Patrolman Had Ordered Foreigner to Discontinue a Dance in Progress After Midnight

Injured Men Rushed to Hospital Where it is Said
Both Will Probably Recover--Tougher Element of the Foreign Colony That is Creating Trouble for the Police Department.

Frank Savange, a foreigner, is lying at the point of death at the City Hospital, suffering from three pistol wounds inflicted by Special Patrolman William Glenn, who also lies in a serious condition within hearing distance of the man who was responsible for the affair, with several others.

It is a notorious fact that any affair in which several of any one of the colonies of foreigners in Newark are implicated, is covered up by the ones from whom true statement of facts could be obtained if they would hold their tongues. Instead of that, they feign ignorance of not only the English language, but of those languages allied with the one they speak.

To a reporter they merely say, "Me no understand," and the same reply is made to the chief and captain of police, especially when one of their number is implicated in a crime.

It is for this reason that the news of the frequent outbreaks of the foreigners is difficult to procure.

From the witnesses of Saturday night's affair, as well as from the chief of police and the statement of the wounded officer, it is learned that William Glenn, a man who has been used for special duty, was ordered to see to it that a Hungarian dance given at 340 Baltimore street, should close promptly at 12 o'clock Saturday night, and in the performance of this duty he was assaulted and brutally beaten.

At headquarters it is said, and the statements of others bear it out, Officer Glenn gave notice to the dancers that at 12 o'clock the dance would have to stop.

Some time after that hour it was running in full force and Officer Glenn went to the house and gave peremptory orders that the dance must stop.

He was then assaulted by a number of the revelers, taken from the house, beaten and kicked, and some say it was the intention of the officer's assailants to push him under a railway train.

At any rate, in the melee that resulted, Officer Glenn pulled his revolver and shot at the men who had held him. Three bullets taking effect in Savange's abdomen.

The police patrol and the Criss Bros. & Jones ambulance were summoned and both men were taken to the City Hospital, where Dr. W. H. Krauss dressed the wounds of the foreigner, as were those of the officer, and both will probably recover. Dr. W. E. Wright was the anesthetist.

Dr. W. E. Wright said Monday afternoon that the bullet wounds were three in number, located in the region of the liver. One of the bullets passed through the abdominal cavity, while the other two were deflected by a rib, all three lodging in the muscles of the back.

The physicians realized that the bullets had done all the damage they could, and did not continue to probe to find them, as the patient could not have survived this continued shock. He rested fairly well during the day, and the physicians entertain hope of his recovery.

BLACK HAND

Demanding Money from Cleveland
Italian and When He Refused
Shot Him Dead.

Cleveland, June 26.—Refusing to identify the Black Hand assassins who two months ago slashed him with a knife when he refused to pay over a sum of money, Antonio De Cicco left himself open to another demand which last night cost him his life. He had just left the hospital after recovering from the knife slashes, when he was again accosted and the original demand for money repeated. Cicco again refused and was at once shot down with a bullet through the brain. The police declare that had he told them in his first place the name of his assailants, his murder could have been prevented.

TELLS STORY OF SLUSH FUNDS TO COMMITTEE

Washington, June 26. The original slush fund story was told first handed to the Lorimer investigating committee of the senate today by Charles S. Funk of Chicago, who said:

"I was standing in a room at the Union League club when Edward Hines approached me. In substance he said to me: 'You are just the man I wanted to see. We put Lorimer over at Springfield but it cost us $100,000. We had to raise the money hurriedly and now we are seeking our friends to get the matter fixed up. If they give us $10,000 each the matter will be easily cleaned up. You can just send the money to Ed Tilden.' 'Why do you come to me,' I asked. 'Because the Harvester company, your company, is interested in having the right kind of a man in the senate.' I then told him I should have nothing to do with it."

WHOLE DISTRICTS DEVASTATED BY THE TURKISH TROOPS

Vienna, June 26.—Advices from Albania are that the situation there is extremely critical. Turkey has massed 50,000 troops within a day's march of the Montenegrin frontier.

Charles R. Crane of Chicago, who has just arrived at Vienna from Cetinje, after traveling in Albania, described the conditions as intolerable.

The Turks, he says are devastating whole districts, killing prisoners, refugees women and children, burning houses and crops, and blowing up churches. A large body of Albanian women and children are now caught between two wings of the Turkish army and escape is impossible.

Mr. Crane adds that 25,000 women and children have fled to Montenegro and are starving there, their only means of subsistence being boiled grass and various roots they are able to gather.

COURT HOUSE BELL WILL TOLL CURFEW HOUR

The curfew whistle at the electric light power house, which has been doing duty ever since the service began, will be abandoned, and the court house bell will give warning at 8:45 o'clock p. m. When the clock strikes the hour of 9 all boys and girls under the age of seventeen years are expected to be at home. This order will be in effect until October 1, after which time the warning will be sounded at 7:15 o'clock and the boys and girls must hike for their homes and are expected to be there when the clock strikes the hour of eight.

FIRST GAME AT SHELBY BY C. M. A.

WENT THIRTEEN INNINGS TO A TIE AND GAME WAS CALLED TO PERMIT LOCALS TO CATCH A TRAIN.

The game Sunday at Shelby between a team of that city and the C. M. A. baseball team of Newark resulted in a tie, the score being 1 to 1 at the end of the 13th inning. Six hundred spectators witnessed the game and it was pronounced one of the best ever seen in Shelby and the C. M. A. boys have an invitation to return at an early day.

Umpire York of the Ohio-Pennsylvania League, officiated on balls and strikes, and his rulings gave general satisfaction. H. Kennedy officiated on the bases.

KNIGHTS WON FROM B. & O. AT WEHRLE PARK

The Knights of St. John team won a well played game Sunday at Wehrle Park from the B. & O. team, 6 to 2. Culbertson, an ex-league pitcher, twirled for the B. & O., but that did not stop the Knights of St. John. The feature of the game was the pitching of Winters, who struck out 11 men in 7 innings. SHORT SPORT

The race among the American League pitchers is now to see which will be the first to keep Ty Cobb from getting a hit.

It looks as though Neal Ball had at last "arrived" for good in big league baseball. He is playing a fine game for the Naps and hitting well.

There is a difference of only two in the maximum and minimum number of games played by the teams of the National League. Cincinnati has played 61, Brooklyn 59 and all the others have played 60.

Six hits in two games off two Cleveland youngsters shrank the St. Louis Browns' batting averages considerably.

The game must be getting tolerably dead in Cincinnati, when they pull off double headers on Sunday.

Brennan, the Buffalo pitcher on whom Philadelphia still has a string turned in the first no-hit game of the season. Jersey City was his victim.

Hans Wagner, the promising young Pirate, felt so good over his transfer to first base that he walloped Richie's delivery four times.

Big Ed Walsh relieved Doc White in the sixth round and struck out three Detroiters forthwith. He saved the day.

Capt. A. P. Mills, third baseman of the Williams College team, will join Cleveland tomorrow.

Birdie Cree has made 26 hits in the last 15 games, not failing to hit in one of these. He is given a large share of the credit for the Yankees' winning streak.

Some unkind critic has discovered that Arthur Devlin, Bob Bescher and Umpire Klem have all won brief fistie engagements with Roger Bresnahan. Bres certainly is not a white hope.

STENOGRAPHER TESTIFIES IN DIEGEL TRIAL

Columbus, June 26.—R. R. Walcott, official court stenographer, who heard over the dictagraph April 27 at the Chittenden the conversation during which Detective Smiley claims he gave bribes to three indicted senators and Rodney J. Diegel, took the stand in the Diegel trial this morning. By a ruling of Judge Kinkead he was allowed to repeat only what he heard by saying "a voice said" and "a voice answered." With the completion of the Walcott testimony the state will probably rest their case. The defense will be allowed only ten character witnesses unless they agree to pay extra for all above that number.

The story of the transaction in two rooms at the Chittenden Hotel, when it is charged that Senators Hoffman, C. Stone and Andrews and Senate Sergeant-at-Arms Rodney J. Diegel accepted bribes from Detective Frank Harrison Smiley, was related to the jury in the Diegel trial by R. R. Walcott this morning. Walcott admitted that at times he could not catch the conversation going on in the adjoining room over the dictograph on account of passing vehicles, and his testimony was practically the same as that given by Smiley last week. He was allowed to use Detective Smiley's name in his testimony, as he swore he could recognize the voice over the dictograph.

Prosecutor Turner moved that the transcript of Walcott's testimony be given to the jury as an exhibit, but the defense objected and was sustained by the court.

THE NEWARK DAILY ADVOCATE

the talk on the streets and the interest shown in the proposition, Newark will support Class B ball and support it well.

Ohio State League ball was a flat failure in Newark for many different reasons. Poor management was one of the principal ones. Newark is a good baseball town and it is ten to one that Central League ball would pull large crowds there. Ragon, of the Grads, seems very much in favor of locating the team there and is talking it up strong to the sporting element of the town.

TELEGRAPHIC TIPS

Mr. Airy, Ga.: This town claims the biggest baby for its age in the world in James Adolphus Gody, 2 years and three months. He weighs 122 pounds and has a waist line of 36 inches.

Wheeling, W. Va.: Two masked robbers held up Brooks E. Adams, treasurer of the First Christian church and robbed him of the church collection in the pastor's study while the sermon was going on.

Huntington, L. I.: Capt. Charles Sumnos, 76, has won the hand of Miss Ella Kissam, 39, who was also assiduously courted by the captain's brother Leonardo, 83.

New York: Mlle. Stuniko, known as the "Melba of Japan," has arrived here for a season on the stage. Her repertory runs from grand opera to rag time.

Milan: Enrico Caruso says his vocal indisposition cost him $100,000 in engagements and $30,000 for treatment.

Orange, N. J.: General Edwin W. Hine found $2.25 in a letter today. The balance of a feed bill, the letter said, that had been standing for more than 25 years.

Chicago: The rivalry of two young men for the hand of Lena Bjorkan, has resulted in two deaths. Harry Roke was killed by Thomas Erickson, who died later in a revolver duel with detectives.

Chicago: Instead of making it more difficult to secure divorces, Louis F. Post, editor of the Public, would make it easier to sever irksome matrimonial bonds he told the First Congregational church members.

Hartford, Mich.: Rev. Delane Benson, for 13 years pastor of the Gallies B. of M. church, has accepted a call because he wants to be near his aged parents.

Chicago: Danny Goodman, the lightweight fighter, will marry Miss Carrie Richey of Cincinnati next month.

MUST LIST THE STOCKHOLDERS OF LOAN COMPANIES

Columbus, O., June 27.—Building and loan men fear partial extinction of their business through withdrawal of deposits if the provisions of the Hollinger bill requiring secretaries of building and loan associations to list their stockholders and deposits for taxation, is enforced.

This is what they told David L. Rockwell, state inspector of building and loan associations, and his chief, Ed. H. Moore, state superintendent of insurance, through the executive committee of the Ohio Building League, which met at the Neil House. They said that there would be a withdrawal of depositors if the law were strictly enforced and that many liquidations would follow. They were told, however, that the law was on the statute books and would have to be enforced. There was a section put in at the behest of the building and loan men, preventing taxing officers from requiring a listing of the depositors and stockholders of building and loan companies, but the governor vetoed the section.

FORMER MANAGER OF NEWARK TEAM VISITS THE CITY

Cotton Bates, once manager of the Newark baseball team under the ownership of Captain S. K. Hayes, was a visitor in Newark Saturday night and shook hands with his old time friends. He hunted up the real live baseball fans who were present at the meeting in the mayor's office and found many who remembered him and gave him the glad hand.

Bates is an umpire in the Ohio Penn league, having recently disposed of his business at Youngstown upon receiving an offer from the league president to take up the arduous duties of a baseball umpire.

He was scheduled to work at Mansfield Sunday and by some mistake he got into Columbus enroute to Mansfield. He came back to Newark and went to Mansfield on the early morning train.

Bates says he is getting along nicely with his work. He has been working several weeks and has had no difficulty with the players.

Cotton looks younger than ever. He is traveling now without a mustache and his face looked as youthful as that of a 16-year-old boy.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER, POISON OAK, ETC.

Eczeema, Acne, Tetter, Poison Oak, Pimples, etc., show that some unhealthy humor or acid impurity is diseasing the circulation, and that a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid is necessary in order to correct the trouble. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., may relieve some of the itching and other discomforts caused by skin diseases, but such treatment has no effect on the blood and therefore cannot do any permanent good. Until the humor is removed from the circulation the cuticle will suffer the effects of an acid irritation. S.S.S. is the best and quickest remedy because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes into the circulation, and removes every particle of the humor, whether it be an infection of poisonous plants or from other causes, and makes the blood pure, rich and healthy, allowing it to soothe and nourish the skin. OUT OF THE SKY

A Fourth of July Story

By Clarissa Mackie

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The grass was starred with dandelions, and a robin hopped perky among the yellow blossoms. Mrs. Secor watched the red breasted bird with resentful eyes that finally filled with tears.

"Seems as if it isn't just right for a bird to be so happy when the Lord denies happiness to Alice—not that she shows it, because she's too proud, but I understand; seems as if all the light went out of her face the day Martha Fane came over and told her she thought it was a step down for Henry to marry her, Humph—as if a Secor wasn't better blood than a Fane any day."

The door opened just then, and Alice Secor came into the room, surprising her usually busy mother with idle hands folded on her knitting.

Mrs. Secor resumed her knitting with furious energy. "Get any mail?" she asked.

"Nothing except the paper," responded Alice in her low voice.

"See anybody you knew?" asked her mother, with assumed indifference.

"I met Henry Fane," she said, with a note of sharpness in her voice.

"What did he have to say, Alice?"

"Nothing, mother. I just bowed to him and passed along."

Mrs. Secor said eagerly, "Are you going to do anything, Alice?"

Her daughter lifted her head proudly. "No, mother; I'm going to let the Lord take care of the matter."

The older woman reddened. She felt rebuked. "The Lord helps those that help themselves. It ain't a day of miracles," she said.

Alice Secor looked across the lawn and the stretch of road beyond to where the prosperous farm of the

WILL JONES

Fanes lay under the summer sunshine. The large house and barn were painted white as snow, and the fences marked the various inclosures with unvarying regularity and whiteness. Dun cows dotted the rolling pastures in the background. The wide open barn doors showed a glimpse of carriages, and there was the distant pounding of horses' hoofs from the stables.

A sudden booming sound rent the air, and the robin on the lawn darted into the apple tree.

"What's that?" asked Mrs. Secor sharply.

"A cannon, I think, mother. Tomorrow's the Fourth of July, you know."

"I don't suppose you'll go over to the horse track as usual with Henry," remarked Mrs. Secor.

"No, I'm not going," said Alice.

"I wonder if Henry will ask Lucy Jennings to go. Martha Fane thinks the Jenningses are all right, they're so well off."

Alice did not reply. She was mentally computing the value of the Fane farm and wondering how Martha Fane could ever estimate the worth of land and houses far above the love and happiness of her only son.

It was a cloudy Fourth of July, and the noisy demonstrations of the patriotically inclined only added to the general smokiness and depressing heat of the day.

For three years past Henry Fane had taken Alice Secor to the horse track at the heights. Once he had a cot entered for the races, and when he had triumphantly placed the winning purse in Alice's lap the occasion had been as joyful to her as to the tall, strong young farmer she had promised to marry.

This year, however, Henry Fane set forth on the drive all alone. His mother's insistence that he should ask Lucy Jennings to accompany him had stirred him from irritation to positive anger, and he had spoken harshly to her for the first time in his life.

"But what will she think?" complained Martha Fane.

"Think?" repeated Henry impatiently. "Why should Lucy Jennings expect me to take her to the trot when I've never taken her anywhere in my life? I never took but one girl, and if I can't have her I don't want any."

"Henry, wait. I told Lucy I would not be surprised if you asked her to go to the trot. I don't know what she'll think," called Martha Fane.

"I guess she'll think you're a mighty poor prophet, mother," Henry laughed shortly and drove out of the yard. He did not ride past the Secor cottage. Instead, he turned to the left and took the long way around. He would have stayed at home that day so as to have shown Alice that he did not care to go unless she accompanied him, but he had been appointed one of the judges of the races, so he could not very well refuse. He hoped Alice would hear of it and understand.

His mother watched him drive around the long road, and she understood, and for the first time there came into her heart a doubt of her own wisdom. Martha Fane had always been sufficient unto herself and her family. Her son Henry was different from the meek husband who had died and the submissive daughters who had married and gone away. Henry had a dominant spirit of his own, but she had exacted his promise not to marry without her consent, and then after his engagement to Alice Secor had been an accepted fact for three years she had set her face against it.

She was jealous of the girl and of Henry's devotion to her. So she had made family pride and money the vehicle of her displeasure, and after awhile, when she had explained her views to Alice herself, the engagement was broken off. She wondered now if she was any happier. True, she had her son all to herself, and he had passionately declared that he would marry nobody else. But he was changed from the happy young man of three months ago, and in his serious, brooding face she read bitterness and sorrow. She was afraid, and she was ashamed, and yet she did not know how to make amends. Perhaps it would come out all right, she argued, although she had doubts, for the Secors were proud, too, and would never make the first advances.

Dusk was falling when Henry drove into the yard again.

After Henry had eaten his supper he went with his mother to the high hill back of the barn to watch the display of rockets from all around the valley.

They roared up into the firmament, broke into rainbow showers of stars or sent streamers of red fire down to earth with their dropping sticks.

"That one, fell on the barn, Henry!" cried Martha suddenly. "I wish I'd let you renew the insurance on it as you wanted to, but—there, I guess it's gone out. Oh, look Henry! It's awful—like a judgment!" She pointed upward where by a strange freak of circumstances six great skyrocket, like blazing comets, tore toward the zenith from all points of the compass. Just above the Fane house and barns they poised an instant and then broke all together in a fiery rain that fell on the Fane farm buildings like a heaven sent disaster.

"Oh, Henry, that was awful!" cried Martha, almost hysterical with fear. "We better get down to the house and see that everything's all right. I wish I'd let you renew the insurance."

Henry spoke not a word as they hurried down the slope. When they reached the barnyard the barn was afire in a dozen places where the cinders had ignited the dry shingles. While Martha flew to telephone to the hose company Henry tore open the barn doors and led the frightened stock into the pastures. Then he rolled the carriages to a place of safety, threw a canvas cover over them and turned to the house.

Through the dormer window of the attic there glowed a red light, and a little tongue of flame licked the roof. He called his mother, and they worked frantically to remove their choicest possessions from the house, for there was nothing else to do until help came from the village. Suddenly Mrs. Secor and Alice appeared and worked side by side with the mother and son.

When the hose company came it brought half of Little River with it, and before long the house was drenched of its contents while the fire burned slowly downward, checked little by little by the streams of water pumped from the artesian well.

The three women, Martha Fane, Mrs. Secor and Alice, huddled in one corner of the yard. Somehow or other their arms had become interlaced, and once Martha Fane's quivering lips had pressed against Alice's dark hair.

"It's a judgment on me for being proud," she moaned continually.

Long after midnight the light ceased. The barn lay a heap of smoldering ruins. The house was gutted by the devastating fire, and the household furniture of careful Martha Fane was heaped about the yard.

Henry came and placed his arm around his mother. "I guess we're poor enough now, Henry," she sobbed. "Not a penny of insurance on anything and not a place to lay my head."

Mrs. Secor took her arm and gently led her toward her own house. "Poor or rich, Martha Fane, my house is yours as long as you want to stay there. Uncle Benjamin will watch over the ruins and the furniture. He doesn't mind, because he can sleep all day tomorrow. Maybe it's all for the best, Martha. You know you never liked the upper floor of that house. You can build it to suit now."

"I guess it's a judgment come direct from heaven to straighten out a whole lot of things," said Martha Fane meekly. She looked back over her shoulder at Henry and Alice following. "You take good care of Alice, Henry," she called in a meaning tone, and Henry responded with his old boyish cheerfulness.

"All right mother. I will."

PRESIDENT ELIOT ON COMMISSION PLAN.

What Famous Educator Found on a Visit to Texas.

A few years ago Dr. Charles W. Eliot, former president of Harvard, made a trip through the south and west. "In discussing at home the question of municipal government," said he, "I found it necessary to acquaint myself with the new city charters which have been issued by legislatures in Texas, Iowa and Massachusetts, and then I wanted to get more than a reading knowledge of those charters. So I have been to Texas and have seen the men administering the new governments there."

"There is a longer experience of commission government in Texas than anywhere else. In Galveston the new charter has been in operation eight years, and I must say that the results there are extraordinarily favorable. The pecuniary results are remarkable."

"What the city of Galveston has accomplished in eight years under a commission of five men is little short of marvelous."

"Now, as to continuity in the membership of the commission, the citizens have kept every man steadily serving on that commission, except that the first mayor died and was replaced by another respected citizen. That is the only change in the commission for eight years. The people have been so supremely content that there has never been any question of change."

"Cross to Houston—for a moment. There they have not had quite such an experience of continuity, because one member elected at first has been replaced at a second election, and one other member, though his continued service was much desired by his colleagues, was replaced by the popular vote."

"As to pecuniary results in Houston, they actually reduced the tax rate without altering the valuation. They then built four large brick school-houses out of the city's annual receipts; they paved streets at a great rate in the outskirts of the city in order that the extension of the city might be favorably made, and this paving is being continued in every direction."

"The city sets the curbstones, paves the streets and puts in the sewers and asks nothing whatever of the shunters except that each shall build a granite sidewalk in front of his premises. I asked members of the commission how it was possible to meet such heavy expenses, and the reply was, 'We save so much on the former expenditures of the city.' I asked what they meant by saving, and they said that they thought they got as much now for 50 cents of expenditure as the city had formerly got for $1."

"The pecuniary results at Houston are the most striking among the Texas cities outside of Galveston. But there has been a similar experience at Dallas. The city is growing rapidly, and all the municipal work seems to be done with economy. The people are so well satisfied that when it came time to have another election of the commission no available citizen would run against the commission, and all five members are therefore to be re-elected."

STILL THE LIST GROWS.

More Cities in Which Commission Government Has Made Better Conditions.

The number of cities in which government by commission has worked a beneficial revolution could be extended almost indefinitely. Here are a few in which the results have been striking:

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Commission plan adopted 1903. In this city of 15,000 population a debt of $100,000 has been paid off in two years. The floating debt is being reduced and the sinking fund accumulated.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Commission plan in effect 1909. Results have been evident in appointments which have been put on the basis of merit instead of party affiliation. The mayor went outside of the city to select as fire chief a man who had made an excellent public record, but who had been dismissed in another town for political reasons.

Berkeley, Cal.—Commission plan in effect 1909. Interest in public affairs has been greatly increased. Daytime meetings of the council are well attended.

tended. Administrative matters are more widely discussed on the street than ever before. The idea of the old line political divisions, which always dominated the city, seems entirely to have disappeared in municipal affairs. The city is overwhelmingly Republican, but a Socialist was elected mayor this year (1911).

San Diego, Cal.—Commission plan in effect 1909. The number of streets cared for has increased 50 per cent, but the number of employees only 10 per cent. Purchases are made through a central bureau, and prices are obtained before orders are placed, the city obtaining cash discounts. A large sum has been saved to the city by these methods.

Topeka, Kan.—Commission plan in effect 1910. Party politics has been completely divorced from the city administration. For the first time a local railway company has been compelled to make street repairs when relaying its tracks. The city formerly attended to this. The finance commissioner, being unable to dispose of a large issue of bonds to brokers to his satisfaction, sold the entire issue to residents of the city by private correspondence, making the best sale which has ever been made in this city.

Where Every One Is a "Majesty."

Who are the politest people in Europe? If common speech is any criterion, surely the Spaniards must carry off the palm. The author of "Heroic Spain" tells of many high flown phrases still in common use. You bid farewell with "Beso a V. la mano" (I kiss your hand) or "A los pies de V." (I am at your feet). The Usted, shortened to U, with which you address high or low, is a corruption of "your majesty." The love of abbreviations is a curious trait in a people with such leisurely ways; thus a row of calligraphic letters ends a letter: S. S. S. Q. B. S. M., which means that your correspondent kisses your hand—"su seguro servidor que besa su mano."

A King Who Could Change the Wind.

King Ericus of Sweden publicly confessed that he was a sorcerer and magician. He was the owner of an enchanted cap, which he pretended enabled him to control the spirits and change the direction of the winds at pleasure. So firmly did his subjects believe in the supernatural powers of their ruler that when a storm arose they would exclaim, "Ah, the king is again wearing his magic cap!"—London Mail.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it. He said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted, and I finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me."

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANEZKA, 2623 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women were passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Burns Scalds.—The Help

Ever been burned or scalded, wondered how you could get quick and immediate relief? Well, you can by using MANOLINE. It should be on hand at all times because it can save you lots of pain and give you lots of comfort. MANOLINE is absolutely antiseptic, and is wonderful to it's healthfulness to the skin.

In most instances a drop is enough for an application and there are 360 drops in a tube. Costs 25c instead of One or Two Dollars, and remember money back if after using it, you think that it is not absolutely as represented.

Heart and Home Talks

Some Women We Ought to Know

Charlotte, Countess of Derby and All Other Loyal-Hearted Women.

THE window in the Cathedral at Liverpool to Charlotte, Countess of Derby, and all loyal-hearted women commemorates the women who refuse to surrender or compromise. Charlotte, Countess of Derby, belonged to warlike times, but the same spirit is displayed today by many a woman when she refuses to compromise on moral questions. And in this honoring it in the Liverpool Cathedral, the cathedral authorities are honoring a spirit the world stands as much in need of today as in the old times of wars and rumors of wars.

Charlotte de la Tremoille was born in Poitou in 1601, and in her veins ran the noblest blood of France and of Nassau. Her father, the Duke de Thomars, was a Huguenot by birth, and a born soldier; and her mother was the daughter of William the Silent, Prince of Orange. In July, 1626, she was married at The Hague, to James Stanley, Lord Strange. He was the eldest son of the Earl of Derby and Elizabeth de Vere, daughter of the Earl of Oxford. She and her husband established themselves at Lathom House, near Ormskirk, a stronghold which had been in possession of the Earls of Derby and their forbears from the Saxon times. Her brave and spirited defense of Lathom House against the Parliamentary forces, in 1644, undertaken during her husband's temporary absence in the Isle of Man, is one of the romances of history. She absolutely refused Sir Thomas Fairfax's offer of safe conduct on condition of surrender, and declared herself "ready to receive their utmost violence, trusting in God both for protection and deliverance." The siege lasted for four months, when it was raised by Prince Rupert. Her death took place in 1664.

Today, women are not called upon to protect their homes in this fashion, but no less is there many a warfare for them to wage. And, like the Countess of Derby, they need to stick to their colors, and refuse not only to surrender, but even to compromise. It is the only way to win out in the causes that need to be led to victory. And that women can win is shown by this brave woman's prolonged defense.

The suffrage cause, the crusade for purity, the movement to abolish child-labor, these and many more need loyal-hearted women, women who will not abate one jot or tittle of their just demands. And the work these women are doing will, like that of the Countess of Derby, become in time romances of history. Only, it will have more significance, it will be truly greater. For she was fighting, after all, for her own welfare; whereas, these women are fighting for the welfare of all. And though their battles will have none of the picturesqueness of actual warfare, of marching armies, and waving banners, it will have the great beauty of the onward march of truth. It can be said of it as was said of the great suffrage parade in London. "Their banners were not the gonfalons of a Joan of Arc, sworded and in arms. They were the symbols of something stronger than physical strength and mightier than weapons of war, the conquering thought and the triumphant ideal."

That a window has been dedicated in one of the world's greatest cathedrals to this spirit of loyalty in women is an inspiration to all women working in some good cause to hold out for their ideals and to refuse to surrender.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

No Set Rule For Sleep.
The amount of sleep required varies so much with each individual that no rule can be given. Some persons find six hours' sleep enough to keep them in excellent condition physically and mentally, and others need ten hours to get the necessary rest. One person can do the best work of the day during the early morning hours, and the next person can accomplish twice as much by working from 6 to 12 o'clock at night. It is well to accustom oneself to being in control of the brain action as far as possible and to avoid conforming to set rules, but personal idiosyncrasies are not always easy to overcome, and each one must be a law unto himself in such matters. If you feel brighter and more fit in the evening and can accomplish better work you had better arrange your affairs so you can give your individual attention to your duties during the evening hours.

Coshocton's Real Friends.

When Governor Harmon looks up and down the street and shakes hands with several hundred loyal citizens, we wonder if he will believe this old town is a good decent place or a cess pool, as represented to him recently? Coshocton Age.
Certain agitators of Coshocton seem to be in the business of assailing their own city because the Rose law is not enforced to their own satisfaction, whatever that is. But abundant proof can be given that this law is enforced in the popular little city of Coshocton as completely as it is done in any dry town in all Ohio of Coshocton's size. As evidence of this fact let the commercial traveling men who frequent Coshocton as well as other Ohio cities give testimony. If the commercial travelers who visit a city, speak its praises and praise it abroad are not real friends of the place, who are?

Progressives on Their Guard

Progressive Republicans were conspicuous at the President's recent wedding anniversary celebration by their absence. Even Roosevelt, the man who made Taft President, was missing. The explanation is this: The Progressives did not of course intend any slight to the President, but actually feared that if they attended the celebration, the White House press bureau would send out stories to the effect that they favored Taft for re-nomination and re-election.
If a Republican approaches within shouting distance of the executive mansion these days, Mr. Taft's secretary feeds the Associated Press with the "news" said Republican is strong for the re-nomination of the President.
As the genuine progressives are opposed to Taft's re-nomination they are not disposed to take any chances on being misrepresented.

RECENT RAINS WILL ASSIST THE GROWING CROPS

The splendid rains of Saturday night and Sunday have been of inestimable value not only to the farmers of Licking county, but to the people at large. For nearly a month we have been suffering from a drought that threatened to burn up everything in the fields. The rains of the past few days, especially those of Saturday night and Sunday, have had a most excellent effect. All the growing crops have been greatly benefited, and you can almost see the corn growing. All nature has been revived and the farmers are now going about with smiling faces.

FOREIGNERS INDULGE IN FREE-FOR-ALL

At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon there was a fight among a crowd of foreigners at the corner of Mohawk street and Welche avenue, which resulted in one of the combatants having his left arm broken and a rib fractured. He was taken to the Newark Sanitarium.

FORGET IT.

If you detest this vale of tears, forget it! If you've a whine for victims' ears, forget it; the folks who toddle to and fro and do their duties as they go don't care about your tale of woes—forget it. You think your mission is to teach? Forget it. You'd like a chance to make a speech? Forget it. Too many men like you have sinned by giving us less work than wind; if you to noise your faith have pinned, forget it. You say the laws are all unjust? Forget it. They grind the poor man's face to dust? Forget it. The poor man who neglects his law to do a stunt with axe or saw will have no trouble with the law—forget it. You say your neighbors are unkind? Forget it. They persecute and rob you blind? Forget it. For folks are pretty much the same; the man who roars is most to blame; they'll treat you as you play the game; forget it. You have some gossip to relate? Forget it. A scandal never pays the freight—forget it. A hundred horrors have been wrung by evil stories you have sprung; if you've another on your tongue, forget it.

JUDGE WICKHAM

purpose by reason of error of judgment in the quantity administered; B administers ether without intent to kill but to cause intoxication and kills by reason of error of judgment in the quantity administered. Morally considered, which has been guilty of the greater crime? A is a murderer at heart, a dangerous character, and, for the protection of society ought to be imprisoned for life. B is not a murderer, either morally or legally, and it is questionable whether imprisonment would benefit society.
There were some other facts that should be considered in Lee's case. He had openly defied and violated the liquor laws for some years before Metcalf's death; he was guilty of a misdemeanor when he gave Metcalf whisky on the night of March 20; he was guilty of contempt of court in removing Metcalf out of the jurisdiction of the court when he had been subpoenaed as a witness; and he also appeared at the trial that he had been guilty of moral obliquity in his relations with a young woman of the town.

In our conversation on Tuesday afternoon, I talked with Lee about these things; about his previous good standing in the community, his devotion to his parents, his wife and children and his church. He then told me that after his arrest in March his wife and parents had begged him to attend church and he refused to do so because he thought that if he began to attend church after his arrest and before his trial, his motive would be misconstrued and it would be said that he had resumed the performance of his church duties, hoping it might benefit him at the trial; but on the Sunday after the trial he attended church with his wife and children. When he told me that, I thought he was not a man devoid of the sense of honor. I told him then that I was considering a suspension of the sentence in his case if I overruled the motion for a new trial. It is not necessary here for me to relate the effect that announcement had upon him nor how he exhibited his feelings of gratitude. He asked me repeatedly how he could repay me for my kindness. I assured him that he must not look upon it in that light; that if I suspended his sentence he must not regard it as an act of kindness to him; that he would owe me nothing for it, not even his gratitude; that my motive was to help him to regain his former good standing in society and become a good and useful citizen of the community; that if he should by his future life prove that my confidence in him had not been misplaced, I would experience the satisfaction of knowing that I had been the instrument, in part of giving to society a good citizen instead of an ex-convict and that was all I was entitled to receive.

Let me here call attention to the unjust and vicious editorial published in the Republican-News of last Saturday. The ignorance of the writer is manifest when he says, "nor did he even put the defendant on his good behavior." The sentence was suspended "without conditions." That means that no conditions are provided upon the breach of which the suspension can be set aside. The suspension can be set aside at any time at the will or pleasure of the court. When a sentence is suspended on conditions, there has been a breach of the conditions before the court can set aside the suspension and order the sentence executed. In such a case there must be a written charge filed, setting forth the alleged breach; the defendant is arrested and brought before the court and a hearing had; and the court must find, and have sufficient evidence to sustain the finding, that the offender has violated the conditions, before the court can set aside the suspension. But when "without conditions," the court can at any time afterward, at their pleasure, or even caprice, may order the defendant brought into court and without a hearing order the suspension set aside and remove the defendant into the custody of the sheriff and to the penitentiary for execution of the sentence. But no judge worthy the honor of "the office he holds would do such a thing without good cause shown. It is with the object of obviating the necessity of a written charge and a hearing, which may mean a long and vexatious trial, that I when I suspend sentence, always suspend them "without conditions."

Mr. Lee understands very well the conditions on which his sentence was suspended, for I admonished him plainly that any conduct on his part showing that he is not worthy of the court's confidence will result in the setting aside of the suspension and ordering him imprisoned in the penitentiary to serve his sentence.

I am charged in the editorial referred to, of "rebuking the prosecuting attorney." Mr. Cromley is a young man for whom I have the greatest respect; he is a young man of excellent parts and bids fair to become an ornament to the legal profession. Although young in years and young in the practice of the law, he conducts the business of his office with a much greater measure of ability than many prosecuting attorneys I have known who have had the advantage of him of years and experience at the bar. But Mr. Cromley has too much intelligence, I believe, to dispute the proposition that he can learn much by years of study and experience in the practice of his profession. My "rebukes" consisted of a statement of my conception of the duties of a prosecuting attorney after conviction, and his relation to the court and the convict. And I cited a statement made shortly before by a prosecuting attorney of years of experience, in a neighboring county, as embodying the correct conception of the duties and relation of the public prosecutor. Young attorneys often profit by the advice and counsel of their elder brethren on the bar and gratefully receive and even frequently seek such "rebukes."

Lawyers of experience all know that sometimes public feeling is so strong against a man charged with crime that he is condemned long before he has had a trial. The verdict of the public is expected to be ratified by the verdict of the jury, and if that fails public condemnation falls upon the court, the jury and all concerned in the trial. Witness the trial of Lewis J. Bolton at Mt. Vernon a few weeks ago and the resulting condemnation of the court and jury by the unthinking portion of the public of Newark and Licking county. A little less than a year ago Carl Etherington was condemned and executed by an "unthinking public."

Let those who read this article calmly reflect and determine whether I deserve the public condemnation which seems to have fallen to my lot, and if they conclude that I have not deserved it, I cite it as another case of a judgment rendered by an "unthinking public."

I have been moved to write the foregoing explanation by the suggestions of friends, and evidences that have come to me of the storm raised by the Republican-News editorial. I have received written communications from quite a number of persons of Knox county with whom I have hitherto had no correspondence. I am unable to answer them for the reason that in but one case only had the writer the moral courage to sign his name. Those anonymous missives bear conclusive internal evidence of having been written by fanatics. I am abused by some for suspending Lee's sentence because he is a Catholic; by others because he is Irish, and by still others because he is an ex-saloon keeper. I am charged with graft, bribery and many other offenses of criminal category; and I submit to the fair-minded people of Knox county whether they approve such cowardly attacks.

Nothing that can be said to me, or about me, no investigation, however severe, can efface from my memory the many favors I have received at the hands of the citizens of Knox county. For years past I have indulged the belief that I had many friends there, and I am now loath to believe that they have all been converted into enemies. I have no feeling of resentment or ill will toward the people of Knox county for the public condemnation I seem to have received; but on the contrary, at this hour, when I examine myself, I find the prevailing emotion to be that of gratitude for the favors I have received in the years that are gone.

This article must not be read in the sense of an apology for my official conduct in the Lee case. There is nothing I desire to retract, nor apologize for; and the responsibility for my official act is all my own. The idea of suspension of sentence originated with myself and was not even suggested by his counsel. If, after due consideration and a full knowledge of the matter, the people of Knox county see fit to continue their condemnation of me and my official conduct, I shall attempt to bear it with resignation, continue my official course guided by such knowledge as I possess, and let the temptest rage. EMMETT M. WICKHAM.

CHURCH STATUE OF JOHN THE BAPTIST CAUSES TROUBLE

Cleveland, June 25.—Refusing to permit a statue of John the Baptist to be taken from the church in order that it might be carried in a parade in honor of St. John's day, Father Edmunds Halley of Holy Rosary church was attacked yesterday by a mob of three hundred Italians who broke down the doors of the parish house and endeavored to drag the priest into the street. The latter, however, succeeded in defending himself until police reserves rescued him.

CONGRESS DUES FUTILE TALKING

Few Listen to Speeches and Few Read Them.

SPLIT LIKELY IN MISSOURI.

Senator Reed Announces That He Favors Former Governor Falk For President, but Speaker Clark Is Not Alarmed and Says He Can Get State Delegation if He Wants It.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 25.—[Special.]—What becomes of all the congressional speeches? The senate is just beginning on a series of speeches which will fill volumes, and the house has literally talked itself out on three different bills.

A strange spectacle was presented in the house when there was really nothing more to say on the subject of the tariff, or at least there was no one who wanted to say anything, and the debate ended with floods of oratory actually unchecked. Who reads these speeches? Perhaps a very few people who are marooned where they cannot get anything else, or maybe one person in a million has a taste for that kind of literature. But it is a safe assertion that a less per cent of the people read these speeches than listen to them, and it is notorious that few of the speakers have any auditors.

"Home consumption" scarcely explains the amount of talk, for the average congressman must know that even his own people will not read the speeches. It must be merely the desire to talk in congress that produces so much oratory.

Split In Missouri.

Outside of Missouri more people in Washington than anywhere else were interested in Senator Reed's announcement that he was for former Governor Falk for president. Naturally a number of "Champ Clark's friends" mentioned the matter to the speaker, but they did not find him very much disturbed. "If I want the delegation from Missouri," he told some of them, "I can get it."

There were also men who recollected that a state delegation in favor of a man did not always mean his success. Cleveland was nominated in 1892 with the big New York delegation solidly against him. But there will be a lively time in Missouri before a Folk delegation is chosen.

Looking For The Cake.

Hundreds, if not thousands, of people who attended the Taft silver anniversary hoped to get a sight of the gorgeous presents, but were not surprised that they were not on view. One of the strange sights of the reception was the anxiety of a few individuals who went from place to place asking "Where is the big cake?" A story was afloat that there was a wedding cake big enough so that every one of the 10,000 guests might have a piece, and some of those present decided to have their share.

Whom They Wanted.

A youthful bridal pair sat in the speaker's anteroom waiting to see him. After awhile Mr. Clark came out of his private office and went over to them.

"We want to see Speaker Cannon," said the man.

"But he isn't speaker any more," said Clark, who supposed that everybody was aware that there had been a change of house rulers. "Neal," he called to the messenger, "take these folks around and show 'em Uncle Joe's room."

Puzzle—Find the Insurgents.

In the house it has not been difficult to place the insurgents, but since Canadian reciprocity became a live subject in the senate it is difficult to find the insurgents. Now, no one would intimate that either Gallinger or Heyburn is an insurgent, but the way New Hampshire and Idaho jump on this administration bill you cannot tell.

Then there are Warren and Clark of Wyoming, Smoot and Sutherland of Utah, Curtis of Kansas, all so died in the wool "regular" that no one would ever suspect that they would depart from what the organization wanted. Peatrose of Pennsylvania seems to be the only simon pure regular, although we must not forget the venerable Culom of Illinois, who never deviates from the straight path of regularity. But there seems to be a new crop of insurgents, and it is difficult to make distinctions these days.

Peace and Quiet.

With the Taft silver wedding festivities over and the departure of everybody who can get away, peace and quiet reign in Washington save under the dome of the capitol. There the war of words continues, but all else has settled down to that summer quiet which usually marks the season in Washington.

Senate "Joy Rides."

During the blistering days the senators found the coolest place in Washington to be the tunnel connecting the senate wing with the office building. The very hot senators began taking "joy rides" on the electric carriages which ply back and forth between the two buildings. "These boys who run the electric wagons have got the best jobs around this place," remarked one senator who had just completed a trip.

FILMS BURN AT A MOVING PICTURE SHOW

Quite a little excitement was caused Saturday evening at 10:25 o'clock by two films burning in the Grand theatre. The audience present at the time was quieted by Mr. Abe Thomas, one of the owners of the building, who immediately seized a fire extinguisher and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze.

The pianist, Miss Gretchen Kuntz, continued playing during the fire and assisted in the quieting of the audience, which filled out in an orderly manner, no one receiving any injury. Joe Perry was operating the picture machine, and when a change was to be made, the slide, which transferred the films from one reel to another, stuck, with the result that the intense lights used set fire to the films, which are made of celluloid, and they flashed like powder. Mr. Perry jumped into a court below from the booth in which the machine was operated and was only slightly burned. The booth is so situated, really outside of the main room and surrounded by a fire wall, that the only real danger was not from fire, but from panic. Deputy Fire Marshal Edward Gilbert said there was no safer theatre in Ohio than the Grand, which was constructed in the strictest compliance with the requirements of the law.

The fire department received the alarm at 10:25 o'clock and made a quick run, but their services were not required to extinguish the fire, which caused a loss of about $250, the two films amounting to $100 each, while $50 would easily cover the damage to the booth.

It is made of pure lead, linseed oil, and oxide of zinc plus the proper coloring pigments, mixed with brains. Its durability has been tested under all weather conditions.

OBITUARY

EDWARD MOORE.

Edward Moore, one of the oldest and best known residents of Jersey township, died at the home of his son Eli, on the St. Joe road, in Jersey township, four miles west of Alexandria, on Friday evening after an illness of two weeks with diseases peculiar to advanced age, he being 80 years old. He is survived by three sons, Eli, Edward and Thomas, the latter of whom he made his home with. The funeral services were held Sunday at the Presbyterian church in Jersey, and the interment was made in Jersey cemetery. The deceased was an old soldier, having served three years in the civil war.

MRS. WILLIS F. SACHS.

Mrs. Gertrude Young Sachs, wife of Willis F. Sachs, died at her home at 240 Eddy street Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, after an illness extending over the past week. Death resulted from pneumonia.

Mrs. Sachs was aged 26 years Feb. 28 last, and surviving her are the husband, infant daughter aged only a few days, the mother, Mrs. W. P. Young, three sisters, Mrs. John Tordella of Garrett, Ind., Mary and Christine Young, and one brother, William Young. The father, W. P. Young, died just nine months and three days ago.

Mrs. Sachs was a young woman of lovely character and was one of the best liked young women in the younger Catholic circles. She graduated from the Catholic high school in the class of 1902 and was a devoted member of St. Francis de Sales church. The funeral services will be held there Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock, and Rev. Father J. M. Ryan will celebrate the requiem mass. The burial will be made in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

The body was removed from the home in Eddy street on Monday morning to the home of the mother, Mrs. W. P. Young, in North Fourth street. The request is made that the friends send no flowers.

FUNERAL OF BENJ. L. WILSON.

The funeral of Benjamin L. Wilson occurred at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Edward Kibler, in Granville street. The Rev. Lewis Post Fralich of Trinity Episcopal church conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Fayette E. Vernon of the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Gard sang a solo, Miss Florence King playing the accompaniment. The pallbearers were Frederic M. Black, Harry S. Fulton, William C. Miller, George B. Sprague, Frederick S. Wright and Edwin C. Wright. Interment was made at Cedar Hill cemetery.

Among those who attended the funeral were Hon. Gideon C. Wilson and wife of Cincinnati; Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Hollands of Indianapolis; Mary H. Welby of Fishkill, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Dryer of Columbus, Robert McCoy of Fairmont, W. Va.; Crede H. Wilson of Cumberland, Md., and William E. Shaddock of Madisonville, O.

WOMAN IS GIVEN WALKING ORDERS BY THE MAYOR

Must Leave the City by 6 O'clock This Evening—Doings in Police Court.

Jennie Smith, a notorious character, blew into the city several days ago, and since her arrival has been stopping at a house kept by one "Dooley," a colored man. Saturday night a foreigner complained to Mayor Ankele that the woman had taken money from him and that he wanted her arrested. The mayor issued a warrant for her arrest and she was brought before him. After hearing the evidence he fined the woman $5 and costs and sentenced her to sixty days in the county jail. After some consideration of the matter he finally suspended the jail sentence providing she would leave the city by six o'clock Monday evening and report at the patrol station before she left. This the woman agreed to do.

Wm. McLaughlin was arrested by Officer Burke on the charge of petty larceny in stealing a pair of shoes from the office of the Newark Lumber Company.

Chief Hindel received a warrant and a letter from the juvenile court of Cincinnati, asking him to arrest and hold Edward Dearth, a blacksmith. Officer C. O. Burke arrested him on the charge of non-support of his minor children. Chief Hindel notified the authorities at Cincinnati of the arrest. Mr. Dearth seems anxious to settle the matter and it is quite probable that it will be settled out of court.

A well known character about town was arrested by the officers on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. When arrested there was a woman in his company. The man was fined $10 and costs and given fifty days in jail. The woman was fined $5 and costs.

BIG DELEGATION FROM NEWARK TO COSHOCTON TOWN

Coshocton county's big centennial celebration was opened Sunday afternoon in Coshocton with appropriate religious exercises in court house square, an which an immense company of people were in attendance Monday morning the gates to the fair grounds, where the multitude of attractions are being shown, were thrown open and for the remainder of this week Coshocton bids fair to see the biggest time in its 100 years of history.

Monday was fraternal day, and lodges of different associations from all over central Ohio were present in large numbers, and it is said that more members of secret societies were on the streets of Coshocton on Monday than ever before in its history.

Bright and early Monday morning the members of Newark Lodge of Elks began assembling at their hall and over 100 of the herd, accompanied by about 100 of their friends went to Coshocton, as did also a large number of the members of Cedar Camp, No. 4727, Modern Woodmen of America, and took part in the big parade.

Governor Harmon and Adjutant General Weybrecht passed through the city Monday afternoon enroute to attend the centennial celebration and also to inspect the National Guard troops in camp there. The troops consist of Troops A of Cleveland, B of Columbus and C of Cincinnati, the Signal Corps, the medical department, organizations and the band of the Ninth infantry, which is located in Columbus.

Tuesday afternoon the races start at fair grounds track, to continue for four days. One of the big attractions will be the aeroplane flights at the grounds every afternoon.

BUSINESS MEN'S GYMNASIUM CLASS HAD SPLENDID CAMP

The business men's gymnasium class of the Y. M. C. A. camped out Saturday evening along Raccoon creek near Granville, and enjoyed baseball, volleyball and a plunge in the old swimming hole. Notable among the events was the frequent rescue of the ball from the neighbor-swamps by Dr. Emery and C. C. Metz. Some great catches by Rev. Holcomb and H. H. Leist. The best fire builder in the crowd was Willis Smith and he succeeded in roasting and smoking everybody out. Harry Doane fell over the pup tent rope and scattered the contents on the inside. After Livingston and Bennett had boiled the coffee and cooked the wiener they all sat down to a camp supper by the light of the moon. After spending the evening in arguing up-to-date questions around the fire, they left on the 10 o'clock car for Newark. The men say they had the best time ever and will return to the same spot in a couple of weeks.

UNIQUE RIDES FOR THE LITTLE ONES

Camels and Elephants Steeds With All New Gentry Shows.

But few Americans have enjoyed a ride on a camel or an elephant, but when Gentry All-New Feature Shows arrive in this city Wednesday the younger element will be given a chance to ride either upon the 'ship of the desert' or the 'burrow of the jungle.' In Gentry Brothers' zoo are camels and elephants trained especially to carry children around the hippodrome track of the big menagerie tent. The sport is one that children very much enjoy. The rides are something entirely new to their little sphere of life, and it is needless to say that the youngsters scramble for a chance to ride the queer creatures of other worlds.

Gentry Brothers have for more than two decades made a study of child life and child nature. Their shows had their foundation in specialties that delighted children. Hence it is that the young mother of today takes her children to the shows that brought pleasure into her life years ago. Especial attention is paid to ladies and children who attend.

Gentry Brothers All-New Feature Shows will present two exhibitions in his city Wednesday. The children who attend will be allowed to ride a camel or an elephant. If these creatures are awe inspiring, courteous attendants will give the timid little ones rides on the scores of ponies that make up a portion of the zoo. Incidentally, they will witness a performing troupe of lions, leopards and other animals of jungles, which were trained by Gentry Brothers' trainers. For this day only admission will be 25 and 35 cents.

Cornell Trousers

have same merit as the suits that have created such town-talk. All trousers are not built like ours. Hundreds of poor trousers walk about Newark streets every day. Prominent men inside of them too—We name prices $2.50, $3.00, $4.00. Nothing startling about the prices—they sound like the trouser prices of other stores—but investigate and see how very different the trousers are.

ZIONISM THE HOPE OF THE WORLD

Pastor Russell's Address to Bible Students.

TOURING ON SPECIAL TRAIN.

Two Zions and Two Classes of Zionists but All Parts of the Great Divine Arrangement for the Blessing of the World and Its Uplift From Sin, Degradation and Death, Is Pastor Russell's View.

San Francisco, Cal., June 25.—Pastor Russell addressed large audiences twice today at the Golden Gate. He addressed a Convention of the "International Bible Students Association" in session here. He has been making a sort of continental tour, including Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and Santa Cruz. In all these cities local branches of the "I. B. S. A." invited him and made arrangements for public addresses. Notwithstanding the strain of continuous travel and continuous public speaking, the Pastor seemed in excellent health and vigor. He spoke enthusiastically of the warm receptions and attentive hearings which he had enjoyed. He was especially pleased with his California experiences and the glorious climate noted at his several stopping places.

The Pastor's visit is unique in another respect. Learning of his intended program, some of his friends asked permission to make up a party to accompany him. He gladly assented. As a result a train-load of Bible Students are with him—about one hundred and sixty in all.

While the Golden Gate Convention is the goal of the tour, it is but the turning point of the excursion party. Meetings are to be held on the return journey at Sacramento, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg, Duluth, Buffalo and Toronto, the latter being reached July 16th. The Pastor's scheme is a novel and a benevolent one; for surely what he has undertaken is carrying out is not a lazy man's burden. From the evidences here we surmise that the Bible Students along his course of travel will be blessed, stimulated, energized. Pastor Russell and his party bear with them from the Golden Gate the good wishes and Christian love of many friends.

The Earthly Zionism.
Speaking from the text, "The Law shall go forth from Mt. Zion and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem" (Isaiah 41, 8), Pastor Russell declared that Christians have inadvertently misappropriated to themselves many promises of the Scriptures which are not wholly theirs. Christian creeds and theories have surmised that, through the rejection of Jesus, all Jews dying in unbelief of Messiah were foreordained to an eternity of torture because of that unbelief in the Only Name.

A more careful study of the Bible, he declared, is showing Bible Students the error of this position. Jews who do not accept Jesus as their Savior and who do not become followers in His steps in the "narrow way" will indeed fall of attaining a place with Jesus in His Throne of Glory. They will fall to become joint-heirs with Him in His glorious Messianic Kingdom. They will fall to become members of the spiritual Seed of Abraham, respecting whom St. Paul said, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed and heirs according to the promise" (Galatians 3, 29). "In Thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."

But, asked the Pastor, are there not many besides Jews who will fall of making their "calling and election sure" to that Heavenly portion—to membership in the Messianic Body or Kingdom? His own conviction is that there will be found as many Jews as of any other nationality in that spiritual company which, the Scriptures declare, will, all told, be but a "little flock." Indeed, there are strong reasons for believing that the whole number of this "elect" company, this Royal Priesthood, this spiritual Seed of Abraham, this Messianic of glory, long promised, will be only "a hundred and forty-four thousand" (Revelation xiv, 3).

What Becomes of the Others?
If the Church of glory, the Body of Christ, be but a small company out of the millions of Christendom, what becomes of the remainder of Christendom as well as the Jews? If only the Elect gain the Kingdom—if only the few make their calling and election sure—what will become of the great mass of the non-elect, both Jews and Gentiles, and the heathen myriads? Pastor Russell declared that very foolish and unscriptural conclusions have been reached in respect to elect and non-elect.

The Apostle declares that all non-elect are to be blessed by the elect as soon as the election is completed. But we, following the teachings of a darker time and a less convenient Bible, have declared that when God predestinated to elect the Church, He equally predestinated to damn to eternal torment all others. But not a word of authority could be found for such a view in the Bible. St. Paul's statement is wholly respecting the Church, not the world, when he declares, "Whom He did foreknow, them He also did predestinate that they should be conformed to the image of His Son." Such a predestination on God's part, all can heartily endorse. Who can say that it would be right on God's part to accept any to membership in the glorious Messianic Body, of which Jesus is the Head, except such as are pure in heart, saintly, and so demonstrated even by fiery trials and disciplines?

God kept secret this mystery, St. Paul declares—the mystery that He is now selecting a favored class to be associates with Messiah in the Kingdom of God, for which we have been praying, and through which the whole world of mankind will shortly be blessed. Now the Church's election is about completed, the Pastor believes; and therefore now is the time for more light to shine out, that God's further gracious purposes toward natural Israel and the world may be more clearly seen.

The Heavenly Zionism.

The Zionism of the past eighteen centuries has been of the heavenly kind. It has been calling and inspiring to loving zeal, obedience and activity such as have the "hearing ear" for the heavenly calling to joint-heirship with Messiah. This glorious privilege is about to end because the full number predestinated of the Lord will soon have been completed. Meantime, the Pastor and others of God's consecrated people should be Zionists in the highest sense of the word, and, laying aside every weight and every besetting sin, each should strive to make his "calling and election sure" to a place in the Heavenly Zion—the Kingdom of Messiah.

It will be from this Mt. Zion, the spiritual Kingdom of Messiah, that the Law will go forth during the thousand years of the Messianic reign; the great Judge and Law-giver of the world will be the glorified Redeemer; and His associates, in His various offices of Prophet, Priest, King, Judge and Mediator, will be the faithful Zionists of the present time who follow in the steps of their Redeemer, delighting to lay down their lives for the Truth's sake and for the brethren's sake, in co-operation with the great Captain of their salvation, through the merit of His imputed righteousness.

The Word From Jerusalem.

As soon as Mt. Zion, the Kingdom, shall be completed by the glorification of the last member of the Church, it will be time for the Law to go forth therefrom for the correction in righteousness of the world's affairs—for the overthrow of every form of iniquity and everything contrary to the Golden Rule. In other words, when the Kingdom class shall have been completed by the elective process, which is the Divine arrangement of this Age, forthwith that Kingdom will come into power and the reign of righteousness will begin.

But God has a time and order and arrangement in respect to every feature of His Program. In the remote past, before Jesus came and became the Head and Leader of the Church to Glory, God was in covenant relationship with Abraham and his natural seed. The Scriptures assure us that a considerable number were so full of faith and loyal obedience to God that even though they lived at a time before the calling to the Church began they, nevertheless, were marked by the Lord for special blessing and a special share in the Kingdom work when the time should come for Messiah to take His great power and reign.

Reference is made to these Ancient Worthies by St. Paul, in Hebrews xi, 38-40. He says: "These all died in faith, not having received the things promised them—the earthly promises—God having provided some better thing for us (the Church) that they, without us, should not be made perfect"—should not enter into the earthly blessing which belongs to them.

Accordingly, the Scriptures tell us that one of the first operations of Messiah's Kingdom, after the binding of Satan, will be the resurrection of the Ancient Worthies of the Jewish race. These, the inspired Word tells us, will be made Princes in all the earth—representatives of the spiritual and invisible Messianic Kingdom. These will constitute the earthly Jerusalem, the capital of the New Dispensation. While the Law will proceed from the invisible and all-powerful spiritual Messiah, it will come through these resurrected, perfect and approved earthly representatives; and from them it will go forth gradually, as the Divine message and rule, to every nation, people, kindred and tongue.

The New Covenant Israelitish.

Even if nothing were said in the Scriptures respecting God's special blessing to natural Israel, it might be inferred that they would most quickly fall into line with the leaders of their own race, particularly as this would be in harmony with the traditions of their race for the past thirty-five hundred years. Besides, the Law given to Israel, and represented on the two tables of stone, will be the same that will go into force again as the Law of the Kingdom—the Gospel Call being an appendage. The difference between the Old Law Covenant and the New Law Covenant (Jeremiah xxxi, 31) is that Israel's New Covenant will have a greater and more powerful Mediator than Moses; the Antitype of Moses—Jesus the Head and the Church, His Body (Acts ii, 22, 23). Besides, all coming under that New Covenant, by devotion to righteousness, will have their past sins so fully forgiven that the Lord will not remember them any more—the basis for this full forgiveness being the merit of Jesus' sacrifice.

Few have realized how clearly the Scriptures set forth that the New Covenant will be Israelitish—if the promise respecting it be carefully read and noted. Christ is the Mediator of that New Covenant and its "better sacrifices" have been in progress during this Gospel Age. It will be instituted with the Ancient Worthies first, but gradually with all the Israelites who flock to the standard then lifted up amongst the people. As the blessings of restitution, earthly prosperity, health, strength, etc., begin to be manifested amongst those living under that Covenant arrangement, other nations, the Bible tells us, will also desire to enter into its blessings; and they will be permitted so to do. By individually renouncing sin and accepting the Covenant and its Mediator they will become "proselytes of the gate." Hearken! "Many nations shall come and say, let us go up to the Mountain of the Lord's House, for He will teach us of His ways and we will walk in His paths."

One King, But Two Kingdoms.
It has escaped Christendom in general until recently that the Divine promise to Abraham is to be fulfilled through two Seeds—one a heavenly class, the other an earthly class, with Messiah the Head over all (Romans iv, 16). For eighteen centuries God favored the Seed of Abraham, the nation of Israel.

That period of favor, explain it how we may, began to wane about the time of Jesus' death. It was completely removed from them in the desolation of their land by the Roman army A. D. 70. Now a parallel time has been reached, hence it is time for the return of God's favor, as shown on previous occasions. The favor already is returning.

The Jew has not been so comfortable, nor so favorably fixed, as he is today, in more than eighteen centuries. But his blessing is only beginning. Shortly Divine favor, in God's due time, will accomplish for His Chosen People all the precious promises of the Law and of the Prophets. Already the Jew is awakening to a realization of this great truth.

A voice is sounding from the wilderness, and the Jews everywhere are harkening to it. It does not call them to become Christians, but to remain Jews and to realize, as Jews, the ideals set before them by the Lord in the Law and in the Prophets. To all those exercised thereby a great blessing is near, which will more than compensate for the sorrows of the past. Neither by swords nor guns nor dread-pedals, neither by flying airships nor torpedoes will Israel's great victory be gained; neither by money power and worshiping of the golden calf of finance nor by trusting in the arm of flesh, but by looking to the Lord, from whom will come their help.

Messiah's Spiritual Empire, about to be established, will bind Satan, restrain every evil and lift up a standard for the people, blessing Israel and establishing with them the New (Old) Covenant instead of the Old Law Covenant—under the better Mediator, still more capable than the great Moses; under the greater King, still more wise than Solomon and still more beloved of God than David. This great Celestial Empire will be established with great authority in the world by a time of trouble, a time of earthly distress, which the prophecies picture as terrible.

Israel's Hopes—Why So Delayed?

The perplexing thought with our Jewish friends, as well as with Christians, is: If these things be so; if Messiah's Kingdom is yet to be established, as the Jews contemplated, only on a spiritual plane instead of an earthly one; and if God's purpose is to use those anciently favored people as the channels of His blessing in the future, why has there been so long delay?

We answer: This is what the Scriptures term the Mystery—the matter which God did not reveal directly, either to Abraham or through any of the Prophets. Indirectly He hinted at it, saying to Abraham, "Thy Seed shall be as the stars of heaven, and as the sand of the seashore for multitude."

But Abraham did not discern, nor did others, that these two illustrations belonged not to the same people, but to two different Israelites—the heavenly and the earthly, the stars representing the heavenly Seed and the sand of the seashore the earthly Seed.

The restitution privileges soon to be opened, first to Israel, will, later on, be thrown open to all nations, peoples, kindreds and tongues—that they may press in also under the same glorious terms of Israel's New Covenant, because "Israelites indeed," without guile and sharers in all the blessings of God supplied through the great Mediator of the New Covenant and His earthly instrumentalities.

Zionism, amongst the Jews today, we believe the Lord is stirring up—a preparation of natural Israel for the great blessing which so soon will be at their door. As they begin to really appreciate the Land of Promise, the rich promises in connection with that land must become theirs, and the inspiration of those promises will lead their hearts back to the Lord in prayer and supplication and will lead the feet of a reverential, representative number of them back to the land itself, to which the Lord declared He would bring them; and that from thence they should be plucked up no more. Remember, in this connection, St. Paul's reference to the New Covenant and the time when it will go into force with Israel, as recorded in Romans xi, 27. The Pastor rejoiced in any opportunity he had of stimulating Zionism, both spiritual and earthly, for both are vitally connected with the salvation of the world of mankind in general.

A TEST

A Story For Independence Day

By SARA COULD AMES

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

There is a house at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., where cannon planted and the stars and stripes flying from a staff in the yard indicate that to the premises is attached something of national importance. It was in this house that Washington had one of his headquarters, and it was here that he planned the Yorktown campaign, which resulted in American independence.

Close by this place and on the opposite side of what was then called the Albany road lived a Tory family named Treat. A young lieutenant in the patriot army, John Rathbone, was a suitor for the hand of Marian Treat, and the girl returned his love. But her father, who had been born in England, was so stalwart an adherent of the king's cause that he would not consent to the marriage of his daughter with a rebel. On the contrary, with that vigor common in family affairs, especially at that day, among Englishmen, he insisted on his daughter accepting Captain Reginald Winstead of the British army in America.

One evening Lieutenant Rathbone, whose regiment was stationed at Kingsbridge, rode over to Dobbs Ferry to see Marian Treat. His object was to induce her to brave her father's anger by becoming his wife. He was obliged to knock twice at the door, when it was opened by Marian herself, who seemed very much disturbed.

"What is it, sweetheart?" he asked. "Father has told me since you were here last not to receive you again."

"Is that all?"

"Yes—no, I think you had better go."

"Not till I have said what I have to say and received your answer."

She had lingered in the hall, but he strode into the living room, where she followed him.

"I have come," Rathbone continued, "to make a last protest against your marrying this Englishman, who is one of those who are endeavoring by force of arms to subject us to slavery. Come with me now to the parsonage of Dominic Van Vorst and let him tie the knot. That is the only way by which you can escape a marriage with this Captain Winstead."

"I cannot go. If father should come in and find you here something awful would happen."

"Marian, sweetheart, come with me. I conjure you!"

He seized her hand and was attempting to draw her toward the door when a man stepped from behind a screen and with wrathful men confronted him.

"I am Reginald Winstead," he said, "the man to whom you have referred in such uncomplimentary terms. Do you consider it honorable to attempt to win a lady in such fashion?"

"I consider it honorable to attempt to win in any fashion a lady who prefers me and is kept from me by a father's tyranny. Let me ask you, sir, if you consider it honorable to act with her father against his daughter's inclinations?"

"Let her decide here, now, between us," replied Captain Winstead, "and if she decides in your favor!"

The words were cut short by the violent opening of the outer door. Marian, white as a sheet, thrust Winstead behind the screen. One of General Washington's aids entered the room hurriedly.

"Mistress Trent," he said, "information has been brought to headquarters that a British soldier is within our lines and harbored by some of the Tory families hereabout. I must search the house."

"Captain," said Rathbone, "will you accept my statement that there is no such spy here?"

"You may not know of his presence."

"I do know of the presence of a person here, a friend of mine. He has recently come from the enemy's lines and proposes to return here. Will you oblige me by permitting him to go free on my promise that no information goes with him?"

"I will refer the matter to the general."

The officer strode across the road and in a few minutes returned with the information that "General Washington, in view of his confidence in Lieutenant Rathbone, grants the request."

Meanwhile Captain Winstead had appeared from behind the screen.

"Lieutenant Rathbone," he said, "permit me to thank you for what you have done for me. Had I been taken within your lines in citizen's dress, though there are no incriminating documents on my person, I would have been in danger of being hanged for a spy. Marian, do what I was asking you to do when we were interrupted. Decide between us."

Marian threw herself into Rathbone's arms.

"Now," said Rathbone to Winstead, "I will conduct you out of our lines."

"I beg that you will allow me to go out the way I came in," replied the Englishman. "If there is anything to lighten my disappointment on my loss it is that the girl I love shall marry a man who would not stoop to take advantage of a rival."

Winstead took his departure and found his way by his own army. When he had gone the girl Rathbone had so suddenly won said to him: "An hour ago I had firmly resolved to yield to the wishes of my father. When you were so suddenly put to the test and your nobler instincts at once came to the front I was conquered."

File Affidavits of Prejudice.

Quite a number cases of persons charged with violation of the liquor laws were set for trial in the common pleas court Monday. The cases were to have been heard by Judge Seward, but affidavits of prejudice having been filed against him, Judge Wickham was notified and he ordered Clerk Edwin Larson to send all papers and affidavits of prejudice to him and he would pass on the question as to the prejudice of Judge Seward. Judge Wickham was expected here Monday, but up to the time of going to press he had not arrived.

Adjudged Insane.

Sheriff Frank Slabaugh went to Hopewell township Monday and arrested Robert Snider on a charge of insanity. He was brought here and taken before Judge Hunter Monday afternoon and adjudged insane. He was taken to Columbus on the 4 o'clock car and turned over to the officials of the State Hospital. It will be remembered that Snider wandered away from his home on Friday night, and the people residing in Gratiot were greatly excited over his disappearance and finally secured bloodhounds which traced him to Austin Cooperider's the next day.

Appointed Executrix.

The will of Tilden Mazelin, deceased, of Elma township, has been admitted to probate and Ada May Mazelin has been appointed executrix. Bond $2000.

Will Sell Pike Bonds.

It begins to look as though preparations were about to commence for the road roads movement in Licking county in earnest. Tuesday at noon there will be sold by the county commissioners at their office, pike bonds of Licking county to the amount of $117,000.

"The Store of Newark, O.—Where Quality Counts."

COURT HOUSE PARK PLANS ARE NOW HERE

WALKS TO BE IMPROVED, FOUNTAINS INSTALLED AND SHRUBS PLANTED.

More Money is Needed—City and County Are Asked to Help in the Work.

A few weeks ago the Newark Board of Trade suggested improving the appearance of the court house park and with that end in view asked for contributions and subscriptions. The sum of nearly $700 was promptly subscribed, $251.60 being paid in cash. This money is now in bank, deposited in a special fund, and will be used exclusively for park work.

The Board of Trade suggested improvement of the walks, installation of drinking fountains, preservation of the trees, improvement of the lighting about the court house and planting of shrubbery. The city council has been asked to make an appropriation for scientific treatment of the decaying trees and the county commissioners have been asked to place new electric light standards at each approach to the court house. It is probable that the city and county will make these improvements, leaving to the Board of Trade the other work in mind.

Two landscape architects who looked over the ground suggested the preservation of the "forest" scheme; that is, they suggested very little planting of shrubbery and advised planting no flowers. The architects strongly recommended removal of the large fountain at the southwest corner of the park.

The work has been delayed pending arrival of the fountains and the architects' plans. The two fountains have arrived and the blue prints have just been received from the office of Howell & Thomas, architects. The plans may be seen at the Board of Trade rooms in the Newark Trust building.

While as yet no figures on cost of the work as planned have been received, there is no doubt that the fund subscribed is insufficient. For this reason the people who are interested in making Newark's "front yard" more beautiful are invited to send subscriptions to the Board of Trade for the court house park fund.

The plan provides for straightening walks and increasing size of the walks at each approach to the park. This will make it unnecessary for one to walk on the grass at any place in the park. The drinking fountains are to be placed between the outside walk and the curb on West Park Place, to be followed doubtless by others in similar positions upon other sides of the square. The plan provides for clump planting of hardy shrubs in each of the four corners and at the points where the walks leading to the court house intersect with the walk around the court house park. The scheme provides for large open grass plots.

Of the sum subscribed $251.60 has been paid in cash. No contracts will be let until the money is on hand. Subscribers are therefore requested to send to the Board of Trade checks for their subscriptions promptly. The work of placing the fountains and changing the walks can be done at once, but the planting will not be done until fall. Those who have not contributed to this fund are invited to do so and those who have subscribed are invited to increase their subscriptions if they care to do so.

KINDNESS OF CONDUCTOR WAS APPRECIATED

Through the courtesy of Conductor Cam Smith, the members of Lemert Post and Corps were enabled to get to Lorain in time for the opening of the convention, he having held by telephone the limited electric car several minutes. Cam surely has a warm spot in his heart for the "Old Boys."

MR. RUFUS PUTNAM APPOINTED TRUSTEE OF MEMORIAL HALL

Captain Rufus Putnam, an honored veteran of the civil war, has been appointed by Judge C. W. Seward as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial hall of this city, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. James Crawford. The appointment is for seven years. The many friends of Mr. Putnam congratulate him on this appointment, as it is a testimonial of his worth. He is one of the best friends of the old soldiers in Newark, and has always claimed that there is nothing too good for them.

CHARGED WITH BEING IMPLICATED IN FREIGHT HOLD-UP

Leo Frazier, one of the men suspected of being implicated in the hold-up of a Panhandle freight train several weeks ago, was arrested at his home in East Newark Sunday night, and Monday was bound over to the next grand jury in the sum of $300.

Tomorrow The Semi-Annual Garment Clearance Sale

Hundreds of Superb New Mid-Summer Garments at One-Half Price or Near It

You are familiar with the clearance idea. You know why it pays us to lose what this great event will cost us. The thing that we want to impress upon you forcibly is, that we have never sold garments so desirable at such prices this early in the season.

Our garment season is closing just when the season in which you can wear them is approaching its height. Gowns and Dresses you can wear for months are marked at prices that average less than half. Suits are to sell at half because of the enormous size of our suit stock—a dozen things have made this most extraordinary sale imperative. The prices we quote will bring big response and necessitate our adhering rigidly to the following restrictions during this sale. They are for the good of the greatest number; please don't ask us to make an exception.

We can not accept mail or telephone orders. Don't ask us to send garments on approval nor exchange garments bought during this event.

SEE THE SHOW WINDOWS.

Both large show windows contain today Dresses, Suits, Coats and Waists which are in the sale announced below. Each will bear a ticket showing the original price and the reduced price and they have been selected with the idea of showing the variety in the sale. See them if you can—there are some things you'll find it hard to believe.
